do you communicate to others about the environment?

If so, then you're with us. EEASC is the statewide leader that promotes and supports quality, timely, and innovative environmental education, which results in improved environmental literacy for people of all ages.

OUR GOALS

- Providing a forum for formal and non-formal educators, agencies, administrators, researchers, concerned citizens, and industrial/commercial leaders to share information, ideas, and resources pertaining to South Carolina's natural resources and environmental initiatives.
- Assisting with the development, review, and dissemination of environmental education resources and certifications for teaching in both formal and non-formal settings.
- Recognizing and rewarding outstanding contributions in environmental education by students, teachers, legislators, and industry leaders in South Carolina.

"The EEASC Annual Conference is my one "must attend" event every year. I always leave with a renewed enthusiasm for environmental education and tools to help me bring conservation and environmental literacy to my students."
